Research and information exchange are the means by which science and technology advance. The “EJAS Journal of Science and Technology” at Mattu University is working hard to attain these kinds of successes. A call for papers is now being issued for a third round (volume 2, issue 2). The following disciplines are the extent of the journal’s coverage:

Mathematics,

Chemistry,

Physics, and

Engineering and Technology

We really appreciate the academic community’s and researchers’ contributions. Therefore, we genuinely invite researchers who are interested in these fields to submit their original research articles, papers that have undergone critical review, and brief communications to this journal. Many thanks ahead of time.

Submission of articles: May 16/2024 – August 31/2024

The article submission requirements will be based on the “Author Guides” that is found on our journal website
